The following letter received this morning by Postmaster C. William Beales from the Acting Supervising Architect in the Treasury Department at Washington, is self-explanatory: "One of the conditions of the Department letter of August 20, 1908 accepting the proposal of Wm. McSherry and Wm. Arch McCrean, Attorney for C. E. Stable and J. W. C. O'Neal for the sale of the site in your custody, is that within thirty days after written notice the vendors will cause all buildings and other improvements to be removed from said site and the land left clean, all without expense to the United States and to the satisfaction of the custodian.

"The Department will want this site clear by April 1, 1911, and it is desired that on March 1, 1911, you will serve written notice on these vendors to remove the buildings and other improvements in accordance with their agreement. KILLED ON RAILROAD

D. E. Denlinger died Sunday in the Columbia hospital from the effects of injuries received in the overturning of a locomotive on the Pennsylvania Railroad, near Marietta, Sunday morning.

Mr. Denlinger, who was a Pennsylvania Railroad fireman, his home being in Philadelphia, was one of four of a crew on a locomotive being sent from Harrisburg to Columbia to take through an excursion train of soldiers from the Gettysburg encampment to New Jersey.

The locomotive overturned at a sharp curve in the road and four men were injured, two fatally. Mr. Denlinger was removed to the Columbia hospital and died there.

SEEK A RAISE

At a conference held in Lancaster by the representatives from every Cigarmakers' Union in the First and Ninth Internal Revenue districts, which include Philadelphia, Lancaster, Reading, York and Harrisburg cigar manufacturing centres, plans were adopted for effecting a complete organization of all the cigarmakers of these districts, with a view of eventually demanding higher wages, those paid in these districts, it is claimed, being lower than anywhere else in the country.

No action toward a wage increase will be taken until after another conference, to be held in Reading at the call of the chairman.

TOWN OFFICER IN LIVELY ROW

Officer O'Riley Cut with Glass when he Arrests Unruly Resident of Third Ward. Finally Lands Man in Jail.

Officer O'Riley is displaying a bandaged head today as the result of an encounter with Charles Powell, a Third Ward negro whom he arrested Monday evening for fighting with Mrs. Susie Cook at her home on West High street.

Powell, it seems, had some trouble with the woman during the evening and, words failing to settle the argument, fighting was resorted to. Frank Penn happened along about the time and he summoned Officer O'Riley. Mr. O'Riley found Powell throwing tomblers at Mr. Penn and Walter Carter. The policeman at once took hold of Powell who turned and broke a third glass over the officer's head. They had quite a tussle for a while until Penn and Carter lent their assistance and the unruly negro was then subdued.

The four men finally got started toward the town lock-up and were met by Chief Gordon who relieved Deputy Penn and the new quartette proceeded on their way. When they arrived at the village bastille, Officer O'Riley was in the act of unlocking the door when the prisoner made a dash for liberty. Carter jumped on him, however, and Chief Gordon gave some assistance so that the man's effort to escape was fruitless.

The officers were considerably pestered by the time their prisoner was ready to be placed in the lock-up and the man went in with some speed—head first.

This morning information was laid against Powell and he was committed to jail and held for August term of court.

It will be remembered that he was the man who got mixed up in the altercation with Arthur Douglass some months ago, at which time there was some lively shooting on Baltimore street. Douglass is now serving a penitentiary sentence while the case against Powell was not pressed.

STEALING CHICKENS

Patrolman Daywalt, of Waynesboro, was winner in a foot race Saturday night between himself and Jacob Monn, Glen Furney, which has resulted in Monn's taking a ride to Chambersburg to be incarcerated in default of bail for a charge of chicken theft.

Monn furnished bail not long ago on a charge of stealing chickens from Wesley Calmer. It appears, however, that Callimer's chickens were not the only ones that have disappeared lately from their proper domiciles, for Wesley Patterson swore out a warrant charging Monn with taking 12 of his 18 hennerly residents.

Monn failed to furnish bail on the second charge when taken before Magistrate Potter, and Constable Bretzel took him to Chambersburg Sunday.

INJURED BY RUNAWAY HORSE

W. C. Dubs, of Marburg, who is a telegraph operator in the office of the Western Maryland Railroad at Porter's was painfully injured Saturday afternoon, while trying to stop a runaway horse.

The young man was riding a bicycle from his home to Porter's, when he observed the approach of a runaway team. Quickly alighting from his wheel, he attempted to catch the bridle of the horse, but was thrown beneath the animal's hoofs, with painful injuries. It is said that the print of the horse's hoof is plainly visible on his back. He was taken to his home and is now under the care of Dr. L. H. Sterner, of Porter's.

3000 MORE MEN ARRIVE IN CAMP

Militia from West Virginia and District of Columbia Arrive in Big Camp of Instruction. Last Period of the Camp.

Three thousand more troops arrived in the camp of instruction east of Gettysburg today and there are now about 5000 soldiers under canvas for the third period of the camp. The troops which arrived today are the following:

District of Columbia: First and Second Infantry; First Separate Battalion Infantry, colored; First Battery Field Artillery, Signal Corps Company; Ambulance Company.

West Virginia: First and Second Infantry; Medical Corps.

The West Virginia troops were the first to arrive but were somewhat delayed in reaching here owing to washouts on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad which delayed their transportation. The troops from the District of Columbia came in this afternoon and at once established their camp. The West Virginians will stay for eight days and the troops from Washington and vicinity until the end of the camp. These complete the organizations of militia which will come to the big camp, with the exception of the 2nd Troop New Jersey Cavalry which will be here July 23-30.

The provost guard which was removed after the departure of the other militia has again been established and any semblance of disorder will be quickly quelled.

The same general plan of maneuvers will be carried out by the new militia as was followed by the troops here during the first and second periods.

SUES RAILROAD

William F. Watson, of Hamilton township, has brought suit in Adams County Court to recover $259.85 from the Western Maryland Railway for damage caused by a fire on his land April 11, 1910 and which the plaintiff alleges was caused by employees building a fire along the tracks which was left by employees who did not protect the adjoining land.

Mr. Watson claims that the following were destroyed: 20 cords of stacked rock oak wood; 2000 feet of wood chute; 8 cords of wood ready for shipment; 135 rails; 184 acres of growing timber.

The wood burned was located in two tracts, the one known as the "Mizell Tract" and the other adjoining it. Both are situated a short distance west of the trestle over Tom's Creek.

APPLES TO COME EAST

Buyers for commission houses in New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and other large distributing centers traveling in the Northwest and Pacific states estimate that 15,000 cars of from 5,500,000 to 10,000,000 boxes of apples suitable for eastern markets, will be shipped from orchards for Washington, California, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and Utah this season.

It is also estimated that between three and four thousand cars will be required to supply the domestic and European trade.

The market value of the crop in the several states is placed at from $27,000,000 to $29,000,000 at present prices.

BAND CONCERT

George F. Tyrrell, leader of the 15th Cavalry band has arrived in camp and the band will give a concert at its camp starting at seven o'clock this evening. Mr. Tyrrell led the 8th Regiment Band at the time of the Fortieth Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg. Among the numbers on this evening's program are: Espanola France, Poet and Peasant, Dance of the Seven Veils, Amo, Visions of Salome and The Arcade Girl.

College Lutheran Team Defeats the United Brethren Nine and Goes up to Second Place in Sunday School League.

In a loosely played, but exciting game of base ball on Nixon Field, Monday evening, the United Brethren team lost to the College Lutherans by a score of 15 to 11.

The College team started off with a rush scoring eight runs on three bases on balls, four hits and several errors, and kept adding steadily throughout the game. Crouse had a 3-bagger and a double in the first inning.

The United Brethren boys had one big inning when with the bases full, R. Frazer hit for three bases and scored later on an overthrow.

Skelly played well behind the bat for the Collegians and S. Lightner pitched fine ball after relieving Bucher.

JUMPED BOARD BILL

Detective Snyder, of Lebanon and Constable Joseph S. Wilson, of Wrightsville, went to McSherrytown on Saturday and arrested Irvin and Adam Sheetz, who were charged by Mrs. Emma Elliott, of Lebanon, with jumping a board bill.

The brothers were employed in a stone quarry at Wrightsville and went to McSherrytown, where they were working for the trolley company, at the Smith quarry, doing the ballasting of the railway extension to Conewago Chapel.

We have been informed that the case was settled at Lebanon and the quartermen have returned to McSherrytown.

RURAL NOTES

Dr. George W. Wall and wife, formerly Miss Anna Marie Volbert have enjoyed the past few days at Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Robinson's country home on route 1 and hope to remain until July 27th. Dr. Wall is an inventor and practicing physician in Philadelphia's most prominent section and a son of the late George W. Wall inventor and hero of the Civil War. The doctor spends the mornings framing inscriptions from the battlefield. The doctor thinks that as a memorial ground the battlefield is by far superior to anything he has seen in his foreign travel.

SCHOOL BOARD DEADLOCKED

After holding three meetings for the election of one teacher to a school in its district, and then failing, the Penn township, Cumberland County, school board will, in all probability, be cited into court upon a petition of the citizens of that section. The members of the board held a meeting for organization on the first Monday of June, according to law, and elected officers. Shortly after their organization the members met and elected all the teachers excepting one for the State Road school, and it is this election that is causing all the trouble. The teacher of this school has been Miss Luna M. Piper, and Miss June Lefever was an applicant.

The vote of the board was three to three at each of the three meetings and it is stated none of the members will give in. Miss Piper presented a petition signed by every patron of her district, and Miss Lefever withdrew, but this did not settle the matter.

The statement is made that the fight is a factional one, with no reflections to the candidates for the position. It is probable that no other meeting will be held by the Board.

ROBBED IN ROLLING CHAIR AT ATLANTIC

Thieves Drugged Victim Before Taking His Money.

Atlantic City, July 19.—Drugged in a side street saloon, the location of which the police have not yet learned, Joseph Grasser, a business man of New York, was taken out to the Boardwalk, placed in a rolling chair, between two men, said to be crooks, and calmly robbed of his entire vacation roll of $180.

Probably 20,000 persons were in sight of the chair while the men were going through the victim in broad daylight, but the thieves would probably have escaped had it not been for the keenness of Captain of Detectives Whalen, who noticed Grasser's condition as he passed and placed a police man on the trail of the chair.

Frank Quinn and Ambrose Brown were later arrested and held under heavy bail, charged with the robbery, after Grasser's wallet and $98 had been found on the latter.

The robbery was the boldest ever perpetrated at the resort. Supposing that Grasser was partly intoxicated, Whalen only ordered him watched to see that he did not drink any more. When the policeman on detail reported that Quinn and Brown had left Grasser in the chair, however, Whalen had the men brought to the city hall, where Grasser after he had recovered his senses told of the robbery.

Middle Distance Runner Breaks Record For 1000 Yards.

SHEPPARD BREAKS RECORD

Middle Distance Runner Travels 1000 Yards in 2 Minutes, 12 2/5 Seconds.
New York, July 19.—Melvin W. Sheppard, the world's greatest middle distance runner, added another world's record to his credit in the Brooklyn Clann-na-Gael games at Celtic park.

He won the 1000 yard handicap in the record time of 2 minutes, 12 2/5 seconds, clipping three-fifths of a second from the mark established twenty-nine years ago by Lon Myers.

The race was one of the best the champion has ever run. He ran around a field of thirteen contestants, was nearly knocked off his feet and at the end was not doing his best. As he crossed the finish line he was much stronger and fresher than any of his opponents, whom he had beaten badly.

MURDEROUS WOUND ON BODY IN LOFT

$600 Found in Secret Pockets of Dead Man.

Roanoke, Va., July 19.—Evidently murdered for money which he carried on his person, the body of H. F. Zachario was found in the loft of a barn in the outskirts of the city.

There was a wedge-shaped wound in his head. A colored man with whom Zachario had quarreled is missing.

Zachario was about fifty years old and a native Virginian. He wore two pairs of trousers, and when the police stripped the body they found more than $600 sewed up in secret pockets between the legs of the under pair. It was thought he carried a large amount in the outer pockets and that this was taken by his slayer.

For several months Zachario was handling cattle for a Roanoke county raiser. The herds were sold recently, and Zachario invested his share of the profits in hogs, which he fed at a large distillery on the edge of the town. He lived alone in a small house and was heard to say recently that he would not have to work much longer, as he was going to buy a farm and pay cash for it.

Mack Vaden, a colored man, who worked about the distillery, had a quarrel with Zachario a week ago. Neighbors of Zachario missed him, and a search ended in finding his body on a pile of fodder in the stable loft. When told of Zachario's death, Vaden is said to have remarked that he should have been killed. Vaden has not been seen since, and the police have instituted a search for him.

ARREST FUGITIVE BANKER

Man Wanted in Utica, N. Y., Captured in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, July 19.—A man said to have been J. Howard Lowery was arrested as he left a lodging house on Sixteenth street, near Poplar, by detectives of the New York office of the American Bankers' association, who say he is wanted for embezzling about $100,000 from a bank in Utica, N. Y., in which he was employed for years.

J. Howard Lowery disappeared from Utica April 27 last. He had been the note teller in the Utica City National bank, where he had been employed for a long time and was implicitly trusted.

While the bank examiner was going over the books, Lowery went into another room, and thence from the bank, carrying with him about $4000 that he had taken from a drawer on his way out. His absence was not discovered for an hour, and then he could not be traced.

Lowery's shortage was something over $100,000, and his stealings had been going on for six years. He lost most of the money, it is believed, in the stock market.

POISONS FAMILY FOR REVENGE

Discharged Servant Tried to Kill Four.

SET FIRE TO HOUSE

Italian Held For Attempted Murder and Arson at Princeton, N. J.—Family Taken Ill at Dinner.

Princeton, N. J., July 19.—Emilio Bassi, an Italian, twenty years old, is under arrest here on a charge of having attempted to poison a whole family and to burn a house. One of the persons poisoned is still very ill, but is expected to recover. The others have gotten over the ill effects of the poison.

Bassi was employed as a steward by Miss Rose Norton, of 168 Nassau street, this city, up to Saturday last, when he was discharged. Bassi had a domineering way about him and made himself so obnoxious that Miss Norton decided to get rid of him. Before he took his departure, it is charged, he told Miss Norton that he would poison everybody in the family and burn down the house. Miss Norton paid little attention to his threats and soon forgot all about them.

Taken Ill at Dinner.
At dinner Sunday night Miss Norton and the other members of the household partook of blackberries and cream and immediately afterward became deathly sick. Besides Miss Norton those affected were her uncle, Mr. Harper; E. H. Newton, a drug clerk, and a negress who is Miss Norton's cook.

Drs. McDonald and Bergen were summoned, but before either physician reached the place it was discovered that the house was on fire in the attic. An alarm was turned in, and the firemen arrived at the house before the physicians. They found the members of the household suffering greatly and unable to do anything to stay the progress of the flames. The firemen made short work of the fire and the damage done was not great.

On the arrival of the physicians the sufferers were cared for, and all but Miss Norton soon showed signs of improvement. All are said to have fully recovered except Miss Norton, who is still very ill, although not dangerously so.

Bassi was arrested in front of the university buildings. He was taken before Mayor Robinson, who, sitting as a magistrate, held him to await the action of the grand jury.

Bassi refused to say anything when questioned by the police. He was formerly a member of company K, Second regiment, N. J. N. G., but was dishonorably discharged for threatening to kill another member of the company with a knife.

House Fired in Three Places.

An investigation showed that the attic of Miss Norton's home had been set on fire in three places. Inflammable material had been set on fire in a barrel, a box and a bureau drawer in three different parts of the attic, and there was every indication that the blaze had been started deliberately by some one who wished to destroy the house.

County Prosecutor's Attorney Crossley, of Trenton, came here and made an investigation, and he ordered that Miss Norton's house be closed for the present. He also took possession of what blackberries had not been eaten by the family and will have them examined by an expert chemist.

So far as can be learned Bassi was not seen in the vicinity of the Norton home after his discharge, but it is believed that he entered the house while the family was at dinner and, going to the attic, set fire to the place.

The theory is entertained that he poisoned the berries before he left the house after his discharge by Miss Norton.

A curious relic of Louis XVII. is the "game of dominoes" made of pieces of the Bastille which were given to the dauphin before he and his parents left Versailles forever. Royal Mistakes.

Sovereigns and princes are strangely given to making astonishing mistakes while dealing with dates. The inscription on King Edward VII's coffin that he died in the ninth year of his reign instead of the tenth is only an example of many similar errors. In November 1888 Queen Victoria wrote to the late king to inform him that he might consider himself emancipated from personal authority and control, as he was now eighteen years old and therefore of age. Her majesty's letter, which was very long, was a quasi sermon and it ended by informing the then Prince of Wales that he would be forthwith made a knight of the Garter and a colonel in the army. How Queen Victoria and Prince Albert fell into so extraordinary a mistake it is impossible to understand, for the prince had only then completed his seventeenth year. Dean Wellesley, to whom the young prince showed the letter, at once detected the serious error into which the queen had fallen, but he thought it best to say nothing.—London Truth.

"And why should I not lick you, pray?" thundered the schoolmaster. "W-y, sir, 'cos I think I've 'ad enough!" gasped James. "Yesterday the boy as I played truant with and I fell out and he licked me, and a man we threw stones at caught me and licked me, the driver of a cart we hung on to licked me, the owner of a cart we chased licked me, and then when I got home mother licked me, and after that father licked me, and then mother licked me again for calling her a sneak for telling father."

Went Back on His Authority.

Leslie Stephen's single meeting with Freeman, the historian, was in the nature of a collision. "I came in contact with him only once," he said. "He wrote a life of Alfred for the Dictionary of National Biography under my editorship, but declined to do more because we had a difference of opinion as to whether Alfred should be spelled with an 'A.' That was, I confess, a question to which I was completely indifferent, but I had taken competent advice, and my system (I forget what it was) had been elsewhere sanctioned by the great historian Stubbs. Now, as Freeman was never tired of asserting the infallibility of Stubbs, I innocently thought that I might take refuge behind so eminent an authority. The result was that for once Freeman blushed and Stubbs and refused to cooperate any longer in an unbecoming enterprise."

Three Men.

When H. H. Rogers was in the prime of his power, says a New York writer, he formed a "friendship partnership" with Mark Twain and Thomas Brackett Reed and took personal charge of their affairs, looking after them as he would a couple of children. It was great fun for all three, and especially Rogers. Neither Clemens nor Reed had any sense for business. The big ex-speaker came to New York a poor man. Five years later he died suddenly, and his estate assayed over $800,000. He probably had no idea what he was worth at any stage. Rogers made as much or more money for Clemens.

WOMEN'S WOES

Gettysburg Women Are Finding Relief at Last.

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Kidneys cause more suffering than any other organ of the body. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that helps and cures the kidneys and is endorsed by people you know.

Mrs. N. L. Wierman, 135 York Street, Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I suffered a great deal from backache and I often had nervous spells. When I Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I procured a supply from the People's Drug Store and commenced their use. The backache was relieved and my entire system was benefited. I gladly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills and advise anyone afflicted with kidney trouble to give them a trial."

SOWING HIS WILD OATS.

Nights of Wasteful Debauchery That Wore Him Out.
"Yes, I'm dissipating too much," said the red faced rustic as he rubbed his head deponently.
"Dissipating?" gasped his friend.
"That's the word I used. You've heard that expression about 'burning life's candle at both ends?' Well, that's my case exactly. To tell the truth, I have been having too gay a time. Last night I went down to the Blue Moon and drank a soda. Then some traveling man offered me a cigar. Of course I had to take it."

"You don't mean it?"
"I mean just what I say. Then I bought a ham sandwich. I ate it and actually forgot myself and took another. On my way home I dropped into the church social for a few minutes. Some of the young ladies made me try the 'penny dip,' and I drew a blank."
"Such extravagance!"
"That's exactly it. Extravagance and dissipation will kill me. It was 9 o'clock before I reached home."

"Yes, I must be sowing my wild oats. Well, I've finished now. Night before last I called on my girl. She wouldn't let me leave until I had taken her out and bought chocolate creams. Talk about 'penny dipping'! I'm

INQUEST DEEPENS CRIPPEN MYSTERY

Physicians Cannot Determine Sex of Corpse.

NO TRACE OF THE DOCTOR

Several Witnesses Recited the Known Details of the Crime, But Nothing New Was Brought Out.

London, July 19.—Interest in the mysterious murder of which Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen, formerly a resident of Brooklyn, is suspected, centered in the inquest over the body that is believed to be that of Belle Elmore, the physician's actress wife.

While an unremitting search was made in New York, Philadelphia, France and Great Britain for Crippen, the inquest opened with the hope that physicians and experts would be able to clear away some of the mystifying circumstances of the case.

Sex of Corpse Unknown.

Instead of clarifying the situation, the inquest only enveloped the crime in deeper mystery. Far from establishing the identity of the victim found in Crippen's cellar buried in quick lime, the physicians were unable to state definitely even that the portions of the body recovered were those of a woman.

As far as the search for Crippen and Ethel Clara Le Neve, known as his typist, is concerned, most hope of finding them turned to the steamship Kronland, which is due at New York today. Another theory is that the physician fled to France disguised as a woman.

The formal evidence adduced at the inquest added nothing material to what was already generally known. The only startling fact developed was that the experts were not even in a position to state definitely whether the boneless mass of flesh dug up under the cellar floor was that of a woman. Because of this it was decided to adjourn the inquest for a month to give Dr. Pepper, examiner in surgery at the Royal Army Medical college, opportunity to make a complete examination of the pieces of flesh.

Several witnesses recited the history of the known occurrences surrounding the tragedy from the time that suspicion first fell upon Dr. Crippen to the hour of his flight and the discovery of the body.

The Police Story.

Dew, an inspector of Scotland Yard, took up the thread of the narrative. He said that he first visited Ethel Le Neve at the Crippen residence. The woman on that occasion told him that she was Crippen's housekeeper. Later the inspector went to Crippen's office and had a talk with the doctor.

At this time, the witness said, the doctor admitted that all of the things which he had previously told of his wife's death were untrue. He said he had quarreled with Mrs. Crippen on the night of Jan. 31, and that following the quarrel she had left him, saying that she intended to join a man who, the doctor said, he believed lived in Chicago.

With the body uncovered in the cellar, the inspector said, he found a piece of string and a man's handkerchief, which might have been used to strangle the victim, including the jacket of a suit of pajamas, the trousers of which were subsequently found in an upper room of the house.

The witness added that he had not heard a word from Crippen or Ethel Le Neve since July 9, when they left the Crippen house. On that day they sent a note to the servant, saying: "Do not worry. We are going to the theater."

Questioned in detail as to the finding of the body, Dew said that at the first of his examinations of the house he found some loose bricks in the basement floor. He removed the bricks and dug into the earth beneath. At a depth of two feet he uncovered the mass of human flesh. The largest piece was less than twelve inches in length. Not a bone was discovered. The pieces of flesh seemed to have been carved off the skeleton. The head, foot and hands were missing. Quick lime covered the gruesome object.

Dr. Thomas Marshall, one of the surgeons who conducted the post mortem examination, testified that he had not been able to find a trace of the bones, and could not swear, on anatomical grounds, whether the members were those of a male or female.

Pieces of flesh, he said, had given rise to some debate among the medical men, but so far he had been unable to definitely decide the sex. The murderer, the surgeon said, had not only obliterated the cause of death, but also the sex of the deceased. The witness said that a microscopical examination, which might disclose more than was now known, was proceeding.

Found Best Place to Die.

Newcastle, Pa., July 19.—"You will find my body between the bridge and the dam at Edenburg. I have looked the place over and decided it was the best place to die." This note to her husband led to the discovery of Mrs. Emma B. Wood's body between the "bridge and the dam." The woman evidently climbed to the rail of the bridge, shot herself in the breast and dropped into the river.

FROZEN TO DEATH IN JULY

Heat Victim Succumbs After Being Packed in Ice.

Florence, N. J., July 19.—Frozen to death in July, with the thermometer around the 90 degree mark, was the peculiar fate of a young Roumanian known as Paolo, who lived here with other foreigners.

Paolo, who works in the Florence Iron foundry, succumbed to the heat last Saturday and was taken home. A physician advised the aliens at the house to place ice on the man's head.

Ignorant of caring for such a patient, they placed heavy cakes of ice on the man's chest, back of his neck and about his legs. Alarmed over his benumbed state, the occupants of the house on Monday called in an American neighbor, who saw that the man had been dead some time.

PICNIC PARTY ADRIFT ALL NIGHT IN STORM

Prayed For Deliverance in Disabled Boat.

Chester, Pa., July 19.—A party of thirteen persons, headed by Rev. George W. Bradley, pastor of Trainee Methodist Episcopal church, who had started from New Castle, Del., in a naphtha launch for their homes in this city, Saturday afternoon got caught in the storm of Saturday night and drifted about in the Delaware until late Sunday evening, not reaching Chester until Monday morning. In the party were several women.

The launch had reached the channel when the craft became disabled and drifted about in midstream. Pilot William Clendenning found great difficulty in keeping the boat from foundering in the heavy seas which swept over the decks, drenching to the skin all the luckless passengers. It was a night of terror, but the members of the party, the majority of whom are members of Pastor Bradley's church, kept singing old-time Methodist hymns and praying for deliverance from the angry seas.

To add to the terror of the night the lights which the boat carried were extinguished. The only beacon the Clendenning had to guide him was the lightning.

When morning broke the party found itself many miles from home and being unable to reach land was compelled to lie to until help came in the form of a fisherman, who towed them ashore. Being far from any rail road station, it was necessary to patch up the launch's disabled machinery and go home under her own power.

Pastor Bradley and his little band were almost exhausted when they finally reached their destination.

300 Girls Escape as Factory Burns.

Philadelphia, July 19.—Three hundred panic-stricken girls fled down the stairway to escape death in a fire that fifteen minutes after it broke out, had practically destroyed the straw hat factory of Rosenau Brothers, a five-story building at Eighth and Vine streets, in the shopping district. The fire attracted thousands of spectators. All the girls escaped unhurt, though several fainted, causing lots of excitement.

Aeronaut Hurt.

Cleveland, July 19.—J. W. Dale, an aeronaut, is lying seriously injured in a hospital here, the victim of a trial flight in a dirigible balloon. Unable to control the balloon when he had attained a height of 3000 feet, Dale sought safety in a parachute drop, but the parachute failed to open sufficiently to bring him safely to the earth, yet prevented his falling to in stant death.

Drowned on His Way to Fire.

Dover, N. J., July 19.—The body of David Danasek, employed at the Wharton furnaces, was found in the Merica canal near the furnace plant. There was a fire at the plant, and Danasek with another man was running toward it from the other side of the canal. Danasek plunged into the water and was lost.

PENNSY SETTLES WAGE DISPUTE

Agree to Change in Working Conditions.

ADOPT MILEAGE PAY SYSTEM

Ten Hours to Be a Day's Work and High Pay Runs Protected—Employees Guaranteed Twenty-six Days' Work Each Month.

BASIS OF SETTLEMENT.

The terms of settlement have the New York Central award as a basis.

The company is to effect a change in the working conditions, changing from the "trip" system of pay to the "mileage" system.

Men now holding high runs are to be protected.

A minimum of ten hours as a day's work is to be established and the short trip minimum of six hours is to be abolished.

Men are guaranteed twenty-six days' work a month.

The men assert the settlement was due to the clearing up of misunderstandings.

The company asserts it has made no concessions other than those offered six weeks ago.

Philadelphia, July 19.—Tentative settlement of the Pennsylvania railroad wage dispute was reached at a long conference between General Manager Myers and the subcommittees of the employees. Both sides feel confident that a plan of settlement has been reached, and only the appearance of some new differences in the working out of details can prevent an amicable agreement.

The terms of the settlement have the New York Central award as a basis. The company will effect a change in the working conditions, changing from the "trip" system of pay to the "mileage" system. Men now holding runs with high pay are to be protected. A minimum of ten hours as a day's work is to be established, and the six hour minimum is to be abolished. Men are guaranteed twenty-six working days a month.

The men assert that the settlement is due to a clearing up of misunderstandings. The company asserts it has made no concessions other than those offered six weeks ago.

No further conferences are to be held between the committee and General Manager Myers, unless some unforeseen developments arise. The details of the plans of settlement will now be taken up by the representatives of the several divisions with the general division superintendents, to be worked out as they apply to the conditions of the particular divisions. There are seven general divisions of the system.

A. B. Garretson, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, immediately after the conference left the city on the Pennsylvania eighteen-hour limited for Cedar Rapids, to attend a meeting of the board of directors of his organization.

W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, will remain in the city for a few days to be on hand in case his presence is required.

Both sides deny that any marked concessions were made. Officials of the company declare that what the men wanted was $4.04 for a minimum day of ten hours, and what they got was $3.63.

The men say the clearing up of misunderstandings marked the coming to a close of both sides. They point to President McCrea's statement issued last Friday as proving to them that the company misunderstood the demands of the men.

At both conferences all efforts to impress General Manager Myers with the contention that the company had always educated its men to expect higher pay for the same class of work done by men on competing lines was abandoned. The men now declare the only concessions to be granted was on the amount of pay on overtime, in which they accepted 37 cents an hour, instead of 40 cents an hour.

A. B. Garretson declares that all the men asked was a change in the working conditions, which they obtained.

Delaware & Hudson Track Hands to Receive Increase.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., July 19.—Track foremen and sections hands of the Delaware & Hudson railroad, who have been on strike for a couple of weeks, agreed through their officials to submit their wage demands to arbitration as suggested by the company on Saturday.

The company has already expressed a willingness to give the track foremen $2.25 instead of $2 a day, and the men $1.65 instead of $1.50 a day, and the chief question to be settled by the arbitrators is for how long such an agreement shall be signed. The men want it for a year and the company refused to sign for that period.

She assured him mamma would never consent.

A voice from within—they were sitting beneath her mother's window—settled the matter:

"Accept the young man, Juliet, if you want to. I've not the least objection. And let him run along home now. Be sure to bolt the door when you come in."

Evidently the mother had small respect for boy lovers and wished to go to sleep.

Our Stock sheet for July 1st, shows us that stock is much too large for good storekeeping. We are determined to greatly decrease it in amount within the next few weeks; so we have Price Marked Lots of Goods in every department, to which the only question was, what Price will sell it? We have also runnaged in every part of the store for Remnants and Odds and Ends, and the money saving on many of these articles, nearly all useable on the vacation trip, will add very materially towards paying the railroad fare and lengthening the stay.

ECCENTRIC PAVING.

Louis XIV. Covered One Courtyard With Silver and Gold.

Many interesting instances of odd and eccentricity of extravagance in the selection of material for paving streets and roads may be seen. It is related that when Marabout, a Frenchman, succeeded to the throne of Morocco he celebrated the event by having one of the roads leading to his palace to be paved with plates of burnished copper. This, gleaming in the sunshine, gave all the effect of the more precious metal gold.

We are told also that Louis XIV. paved one of the courts at Versailles with squares of silver, each of which had recorded upon it some triumph of the French arms. In the center of the court stood a large tablet of gold in representation of the luxurious monarch's favorite emblem, the sun. Memoirs of the time of Louis make mention of a lodge erected to the love of his youth, the fair Louise de la Valliere. The approach was paved with mirrors wherein was painted an allegory setting forth the undying devotion of the king to Louise.

An eccentric nobleman of Milan conceived the idea of paving the courtyard of his palace with slabs of marble, granite and other stone each from a different land. It is said that Europe, America, Asia, Africa and Australia all contributed materials to make up this quaint mosaic composed of more than 1,000 pieces, every one of which was suitably inscribed with the name of the country or state whence it came.—Harper's Weekly.

WITTY TOASTS.

Humorous Hits That Have Helped to Enliven Banquets.

A publisher once gave the following: "Woman, the fairest work in all creation. The edition is large, and no man should be without a copy."

This is fairly seconded by a youth who, giving his distant sweetheart, said, "Delectable dear, so sweet that honey would blush in her presence and treacle stand appalled."

Further, in regard to the fair sex, we have: "Woman—she needs no eulogy. She speaks for herself." "Woman, the bitter half of man."

In regard to matrimony some bachelor once gave: "Marriage, the gate through which the happy lover leaves his enchanted ground and returns to earth."

At the marriage of a deaf and dumb couple some wit wished them "un-speakable bliss."

At a supper given to a writer of comedies a wag said: "The writer's very good health. May he live to be as old as his jokes."

From a law critic: "The bench and the bar. If it were not for the bar there would be little use for the bench."

A celebrated statesman while dining with a duchess on her eightieth birthday in proposing her lady said:

"May you live, my lady duchess, until you begin to grow ugly."
"I thank you, sir," she said, "and may you long continue your taste for antiques."—London Tit-Bits.

No matter where the eczema, pimples or other breaking out occurs, whether on the face, hands, legs or body, the application of Hokara will give quick relief, and even the worst or most chronic cases will be cured in a short time.

You can buy a liberal-sized jar at the very low price of 25c and with every package goes L. M. Buehler's guarantee to refund the money if it is not satisfactory. Larger size, 50c.

THIRD INNING.
The Post Post-Season Game.
By ALLEN BANGREE.

Mathewson and Grant were tipped off to the strategy by signal, and "Big Six" made great pretense at putting a third strike over on Lord. His windup was longer than usual to give Bush a start from first. But when he let go it was with all his speed, high and a foot wide, so that Gibson would lose no time in firing to second. True as a machine the ball came. Wagner and Evers both darting toward the bag. But out of his eye corner the crafty Dutchman was watching Carrigan on third, and when he saw him carefully caving in he reached out his huge mitt, speared Gibson's throw and quick as might be whipped to Grant. Carrigan was taken completely unawares, for he was not thinking of a steal home, and was tagged, floundering to recover third base. With no one to bother him on third, Matty took his time and finally outgassed Lord on strikes.

In the Nationals' sixth Clarke grounded out, Lord to Chase. Wagner and Mitchell walked. Grant was safe on Collins' low throw. Chance lined to Lord, and Gibson died, Collins to Chase. Their rivals also failed to score.

Mr. Merrill tried to sit up in his chair when the Nationals came to bat in the seventh. Mathewson appeared to be affected by the invalid's enthusiasm and touched by his infirmity.

"Put it over," he yelled at Mullin. "You're afraid!"

The Tiger twister answered in kind and shot one of his fast curves. Matty snatched it for three bases. As he turned third bag, Fritz Speaker was just relaying to Crawford, and Matty determined to make it a homer. His judgment was wrong by a second, for Crawford buried direct to home plate, a low throw on the bounce, to Carrigan, who took great chances in blocking Matty's feet first slide.

Evers did the same thing, a triple, and was cut off at the plate stretching. Leach singled to right. Clarke beat a punt. So did Wagner. Five hits, bases full, no runs, two out!

Mullin was apparently gone to pieces. Mitchell slapped him for a single, but the ball bounced against Clarke's leg as the Pirate captain raced to third, and being hit by a batted ball, he was out, retiring the side. Six hits and no score!

Eighth inning: Carrigan perished. Rush to Chase. Collins swiped a short drive from Mullin. Bush cloud scraped to Mitchell.

No runs, no hits, none left.

Mullin tightened up now, and the Nationals hardly threatened in their half of the eighth. Grant's bat bounce was handled by Collins. Chance floated to Crawford. Gibson singled, but Matty quickly forced him at second. Collins to Bush.

The stress of excitement was telling on everybody. Wagner gazed hard at the invalid.

"Looks like he'd croak before this is over," he confided to Clarke. The staid man had almost lost his voice. The veins stood out on his forehead. He had nothing left of his hat but the rim. "For the love of heaven," he implored Cobb, "beat 'em this inning!" The American leaguers were howling at Harry Lord to "get out," and the nervy youngster clamped his jaws determinedly as he faced the king of twirlers. Lord took the limit and chopped a clean single in short left. Chase rapped hard at an inside fast one and pulled it at Grant so sharply that Eddie juggled home taking for Hal to reach first. Lord taking second.

As one the players of both sides recognized the situation as exactly similar to the one in which Mordecai

The American leaguers were howling at Harry Lord to "get out," and the nervy youngster clamped his jaws determinedly as he faced the king of twirlers. Lord took the limit and chopped a clean single in short left. Chase rapped hard at an inside fast one and pulled it at Grant so sharply that Eddie juggled home taking for Hal to reach first. Lord taking second.

As one the players of both sides recognized the situation as exactly similar to the one in which Mordecai

Brown outgassed Ty Cobb in that famous world's series game of 1903, with the exception that here there had been no scoring. In the Chicago-Detroit contest Brown made Cobb bunt toward third, and, telling Steinfield to stick on his base, Brown felled the bunt, cutting off the runner going from second to third. The National infielders stared at Matty and knew by his expression that he remembered the strategy. Would he also employ it? By the first ball, pitched high and fast close to Cobb, it was evident that "Big Six" believed the Tiger slugger did not intend to be caught again. He was therefore surprised when Cobb stepped back and attempted to bunt, fouling it off. Grant and Chance cheered Matty silently. But he had shook his head as though to say: "Hold your positions. I think Cobb is only bluffing at the bunt." When Ty again tried to dump a fast one inside his teammates shouted wildly and strove to get his attention.

"Look out, Matty," cried Chance—"look out for Lord!"

Bush was doing his best to hold the speedy Boston runner at second. Grant was uncertain whether to stick to his bag or play in for a bunt. When Matty had Cobb with three balls and two strikes "in the hole," as the saying goes, Chance ran over to the pitcher's box: "It's a cinch he's going to bunt, and if we're to get Lord you'd better keep it low over the outside corner and field it yourself. It's the only chance. He's got to dump it toward third, and you can make the play easy."

Mathewson was still reluctant. He did not trust the wily Cobb. But Chance was so insistent and the fact that Cobb had twice essayed the bunt—maybe Cobb was dreading that he (Mathewson) did not expect him to do the same as in Chicago and thus hoped to outguess him. Matty concluded that this was so, and he signed Grant to stick on third. But this would be an ordinary curve. He would give Cobb one of his best "fadgers," breaking down and away from the batter. Maybe he could strike him out.

Cobb watched the brief windup, and his shrewd eyes, never leaving the ball, glinted triumphantly as he saw it approach waist high and fading. Quicker than thought he stepped forward and with a short, hard swing pushed a clean drive ten feet from Grant's reach out into left field. Clarke started the moment it left the bat, but a nasty bounce confused him, and Lord, rounding third, tore across the plate. Mathewson acknowledged the strategy with a sarcastic grin directed at Chance, which did not escape Cobb's notice. Crawford fouled out to Gibson, and, on Speaker's drive to Mitchell, Chase was doubled at third, a wonderful throw.

The National's chagrin lasted only a moment. Grant and Mathewson went to the coaching lines. Encouraged by their oratory, Evers singled through the pitcher's box. Bush made a mess of Leach's grounder, and Clarke outspun a bunt to Lord, flitting the bases. The mighty Wagner pawed the earth, spat on his hands and roared defiance at Mullin. Like Caesar drawing his robe lest he see his assassins stab him, Patrick McGuire's big hands covered his face as he rocked back and forward. Mr. Merrill was crying and laughing: "It's all over! Wagner 'll kill it!" Infielders and outfielders were begging Mullin to "steady up."

Wagner swung and missed a curve. Mixing them up, Mullin sent in another high fast one away from the plate, but Wagner, aroused to fury, swung with all his power. Crash! A gargantuan wallop, going with such speed that Mullin just managed to get part of his gloved hand to his forehead when the drive hit him squarely. Chase, expecting a play to be made at the plate on Evers, was way in so that he could back up Carrigan. As the ball bounced from Mullin's head he dashed toward the box, grabbed the ball before it struck ground, whipped to Lord at third, and Lord whipped to Collins, thus completing a triple play on Wagner, Evers and Leach in less time than it can be told.

The grotesque head of McGuire, wearing a frayed hat rim, was the first thing that Mullin saw on regaining consciousness.

"What's the matter?" muttered the bewildered pitcher.

"Ye win, Garge; ye win!" blared McGuire. "The ball bounced to your far-bend, and Chase made a triple play! 'Twas never done but wance before—Buffalo and Boston in 1884, Rowe catching and Galvin pitching. I seen it—what!"

Breaking away suddenly, McGuire reached the home plate, where Umpires Emalle and Evans held their ground against the jostling Nationals.

The staid man's arguments were drowned in a roar of personal abuse, which was suppressed by Fred Clarke and Frank Chance. "That play's legitimate," said Clarke. "And I remember about it being made in Boston. Come on. Let him alone!"

"If you wasn't crazy I'd knock your block off!" Wagner, bareheaded, red faced, raised both gorilla arms over a slight but animated figure that danced around him, shouting: "Why didn't you wait? You struck at two wide ones! He'd 'a' walked you! We'd 'a' tied th' score!"

At sound of this voice McGuire tore the big Dutchman aside. "He's walking—walking—first time in ten years—Mr. Merrill's walking!"

The millionaire in his passion of excitement had indeed leaped from his chair. Only now did he seem to realize it. Quizzically he glanced from one to another as he looked himself up and down.

"You have no kick coming, Mr. Merrill," said Mathewson. "We out-hit, out-pitched and outfielded them."

"Why, yes. The rich 'bug' spoke meekly. He was more interested in punching himself and springing his

Washington was called by many sobriquets. He was first of all "Father of His Country." "Providence left him childless that his country might call him father." Signourney calls him "Father Patriae." Chief Justice Marshall, the "American Fabius." Lord Byron in his "Ode to Napoleon" calls him "the Cincinnatus of the West." For having a new world on his shoulders he was called the "Atlas of America." The English soldiery called him by the sarcastic nickname of "Lovely Georgina." Red Jacket, the Seneca Indian chief, called him the "Flower of the Forest." The Italian poet Vittorio Alfieri called him "Deliverer of America." His bitter opponents sarcastically called him the "Stepfather of His Country" during his presidency.

Once when I was a little boy I slept out in a barn all night, and it was cold, and I shivered and couldn't sleep. But in the next yard there was a little dog, and he was cold, too, and he shivered. And I got him over in the barn, and we lay down together, and he snuggled up to me, and I snuggled up to him. And pretty soon we were both warm, and we both slept. I had warmed him, and he had warmed me. And so if a fellow snuggles a little hope or a little joy or a little desire or a little beauty close up against his ache, why, pretty soon it has warmed him, and he has warmed it. He is stronger and better, and the whole world of hope or joy or beauty or desire is stronger and better for it.—Larry Ho in St. Paul Dispatch.

BLINDING A SHARK.

A Pearl Diver's Ruse by Which He Made Good His Escape.

A successful diver must possess great courage and nerves of steel. Such a man connected with a large wrecking company was visiting some years ago the pearl fisheries in the Gulf of California, where sharks abounded. On one of his trips in quest of the pearl oyster he had a narrow escape from a fearful death.

He had been instructed never to stir from the bottom until he had looked up and around. Fortunately he heeded the advice. Having filled his bag, he glanced quickly about and caught sight of a huge shovel nosed shark watching him.

In an emergency men think fast. Near the diver was a large rock. He moved quickly to the other side of it, hoping to dodge the ferocious monster, but the maneuver did not work. The shark watched every movement, changing his position by a slight motion of his powerful tail.

Time was precious, and the diver conceived the idea of blinding the shark by stirring up the mud. Under cover of that he might escape. He worked for dear life and had the water thick with mud in less than half a minute.

Slipping around the rock again, he rose to the surface, having barely strength enough to reach the side of the boat, and was hauled on board just as the voracious man eater made a rush for him.

HOT-WEATHER DYSPEPSIA

It is a well known fact that it is harder to digest cold food than warm food, and as most of the food eaten in hot weather is iced, a great amount of digestive suffering results. It is well to be careful about what you eat in hot weather, and not to over-eat, but it is more important still if you are suffering from indigestion to have it cured promptly. It is hard enough at the best to bear up under terrible heat, but when the stomach is loaded with food it cannot digest and the bowels are clogged with decaying matter, the whole system becomes congested. You become subject to headaches, colds, fever, constipation and a dozen and one ailments that make life a burden. Take a few doses of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and you will find immediate relief and in a short time a permanent cure. It will cleanse the stomach and bowels and give your system a new start. Appetite, good spirit, sound sleep and energy will soon return and your dyspepsia will have vanished. The cost is only 50 cents or $1.00 a bottle, and there is sufficient for you and your family.
